BioPower Generation USA

Chicago, IL

GreenPower's 5th BioPower Generation conference will bring together leading experts from across the value chain to examine the latest developments in the biomass power generation industry. This is your opportunity to network with representatives from the entire bio power generation chain, with participants in 31 different countries. There will be guest speakers from a number of different companies. Several topics will be covered, including potentials for large scale BioPower generation, policy and legislation, finance and investment, wood based biomass production, and conversion technologies.

This event will be held July 8-July 9, 2009 at the Hyatt Regency in Chicago, IL.
