

August 3, 2010

Visit My Forest.org and Good Fires.org websites

The Tall Timbers Research Station and the thirteen southern state forestry agencies have come together to promote the wise use of natural resources and an increased understanding of the role of prescribed fire by creating Visit My Forest.org and Good Fires.org. The Good Fires website provides user-friendly information about how prescribed fires are conducted, how fires help plants and animals, and the history of fire. Visit My Forest.org allows you to enter your zip code to find forests within 10 to 500 miles from your home. You can also specify which outdoor activities, such as camping and fishing, that you are most interested in. The site also provides information about the conservation of forestland and Leave No Trace hiking and camping.

To learn more about these websites visit:

<http://www.goodfires.org/>

<http://www.visitmyforest.org/>